General Language	20 Basic	This course of twenty lessons a week is offered all year round, with a new student intake every second week, and follows a modular pattern of two-week units. The curriculum is built up like a spiral, which means that each new level of language acquisition starts with the revision of previously studied grammar constructions logically connected with different speech patterns. This has two advantages: group newcomers feel themselves involved in the learning process, while continuing students acquire new vocabulary based on previously acquired grammar material.	20	50	1-52	16	0-7	6	12	(Mon-Fri) 10:00-13:50
	25 Intensive	Participants of our intensive group course will have twenty morning lessons with students who have booked the standard group course. The remaining five lessons are taught on two afternoons, offered at a minimum of three different levels: A1 – Beginner: survival Russian tutorials, outdoor classes (shopping, eating out, getting streetwise, ordering theatre and cinema tickets) and telephone training (booking a restaurant table, making flight enquiries, etc.). A1+/A2 – Elementary: lectures on the Russian mentality and traditions. Other topics cover a wide range of general interest subjects ranging from Russian cuisine to history. B1 – Intermediate, B2 – Upper Intermediate: the focus is on business and economy. Other topics include politics, Russian mass media, cultural and historical subjects.	25	50	1-52	16	0-7	3	5	(Mon-Fri) 10:00-13:50 (Wed) 14:30-17:30 (Fri) 14:30-16:30

Private Lessons	One-to-one	Teacher and student jointly determine the exact content of any one-to-one course. The student is invited to specify his/her field of interests by completing the relevant parts of our online booking form, which allows us to pre-select material, establish a study plan and prepare specific vocabulary. Private lessons must be linked with a group course or with a 20/40 lessons one-to-one course.	5-40	50	1-52	16	0-9			variable
